Fuyo Lease Receives Environmentally Rated Loan from Development Bank of Japan Inc.

Fuyo General Lease Co., Ltd. (“Fuyo Lease”; Chiyoda, Tokyo; Yasunori Tsujita, President & Chief Executive Officer) announces the receipt of an Environmentally Rated Loan from Development Bank of Japan Inc. (“DBJ”; Chiyoda, Tokyo; Masanori Yanagi, President and CEO), having received an environmental rating of “excellent advanced environmental initiatives,” the highest rating given by DBJ.

DBJ Environmentally Rated Loan Program is a loan program utilizing a screening (rating) system developed by DBJ that evaluates enterprises on the level of their environmental management, and then sets financial conditions based on these evaluations. This is the world's first incorporation of environmental ratings in financing menus.

Fuyo General Lease received particularly high marks under the DBJ Environmentally Rated Loan Program based on the following points:

- (1) We identified a wide range of key issues that spans environmental to social topics, when we revised our key issues and KPIs through discussions among the management in association with the revision of our Medium-term Management Plan.
- (2) We are enhancing our customers’ environmental awareness when we propose our “PC Eco & Value Lease” by communicating not only the service’s cost reduction effect, but also the reduction to environmental impact over the life cycle gained through reuse.
- (3) We reduced environmental impact by consolidating the functions of the former Fukagawa Technical Center with the Tokyo 3R Center, which realized streamlining the handling of expired leases and rentals, and centralizing logistics.

Our Management Philosophy states, “Support our customers’ business activities and contribute to the community through the leasing business.” Accordingly, we are actively committed to CSR management and focusing on contributing to society and promoting 3R of expired lease properties, through our leasing and various financing functions.

We remain committed to offering products and services that contribute to the preservation of the global environment and working to tackle environmental issues in our leasing, rental, financing, and other business activities.
